NEW TURKEY CLIPS WINGS OF OLD SULTAN

NATIONALIST ASSEMBLY TOOK ACTION AT ANGORA YESTERDAY

PRESENT SULTAN, LAST OF LINE OF THOUSANDS OF ABSOLUTE MONARCHS

A KHALIF WILL TAKE UP HOLY DUTIES HITHERTO EXERCISED BY SULTAN

(By United Press.) Constantinople, Nov. 3.—New Turkey has abolished the Sultan. The nationalist assembly at Angora passed yesterday a law suppressing the Turkish Sultanate and the law of succession to the throne. The present Sultan, descendant of thousands of absolute monarchs, will be the last of his line.

A Khalif, who will take over the holy duties hitherto exercised by the Sultan as prophet of the Moslem world, is to be elected periodically. His office is to be of the church, not the state.

The National assembly will hold all the power in Constantinople and throughout Turkey, according to the new law.

A salute of one hundred guns roared out in celebration of the laws passing.

Kaisim Kairabkeir was immediately dispatched from Angora to Constantinople to give the Sultan opportunity to resign and to take over the city administration in the name of Mustapha Kemal's nationalists.

TRIAL MARRIAGE FOR BOY, 19, AND GIRL, 16, ENDS IN ILLINOIS JAIL

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 3.—J. Levan Cunningham, and Mary Alice Morehouse agree to be married in Illinois for six months, after which time a divorce will be granted on the request of either party.

"Levan Cunningham.

"Mary Alice Morehouse.

"Agreed on at Lafayette, Ind."

The above contract, signed by Levan Cunningham, aged 19, and Mary Alice Morehouse, aged 16, of Lafayette, was found in their possession when they were taken into custody by police here yesterday. "It was the keynote of a romance which was wrecked when information was received from their parents in the Indiana city to detain them.

Both are students, the girl in the prep school and the boy in a business college. They left their homes in Lafayette Tuesday, arriving in Bloomington that night.

Originally it had been planned that five couples were to come here, after which they all would go to Kansas City.

Five school boys and girls formed a little clique, the girl told police. Life seemed tame and together they planned romantic things, finally agreeing that all should run away and come to Bloomington and then go to Kansas City.

Cunningham and Miss Morehouse were to be married today.

On the train in Indiana they discussed the question of law violation and so the girl, on a scrap of yellow paper, with a pencil, scrawled the contract and both signed it. They were careful to sign it before they crossed the state line, for they had heard that a white slave law made it serious to go from one state to another.

Contract Marriage Trust Broken
Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 3.—"A contract marriage trust" was broken today.

Six boy and girl adherents in a mid-west town were back home with their dream of marital bliss shattered.

Leaders in the puppy love cult declared that their motives were the highest and that they believed their contract marriages would have been the stepping stone to permanent marriage. In at least one case, the marriage may result later.

Levan Cunningham, 19, leader of the cult, is doing penance for a year in Kansas City. After that time he may be allowed to marry Miss Alice Morehouse. The two were arrested in Bloomington, Ill., after they had signed their marriage agreement.

They also asked what the government intended to do in the event that the diadem was smuggled into Holland.

CYRUS M. KING, 62, MINNESOTA DEMOCRAT, DIES

Deer River, Minn., Nov. 3.—Cyrus Murdock King, age 62, prominent in democratic politics of the state and for 16 years a resident here, died at 1 p. m. yesterday. In 1906 Mr. King was appointed county commissioner of Itasca county by former Gov. John A. Johnson, when a portion of the county was divided and named Koochiching county. He held the position of county commissioner in the First district since that date.

He was a lifelong democrat and for many years a leader in their councils. Eight years ago he was a candidate for the office of lieutenant governor and in 1902 candidate for governor on the Farmer-Labor ticket but withdrew from the race in the interest of harmony.

AGAINST VENDORS OF POISONED LIQUOR, SAID JUDGE PAGE MORRIS

CARBOLIC ACID, FORMALDEHYDE ARE HARDLY HEALTHFUL CONSTITUENTS

(By United Press.) Minneapolis, Nov. 3.—Charges of murder, not bootlegging should be placed against vendors of poisoned liquor, Judge Page Morris declared in Federal District Court today.

The judge denied a motion for dismissal of bootlegging charges against W. Reitz and William Gorey who are alleged to have sold the liquor containing poison.

"If these men have been selling liquor containing carbolic acid, formaldehyde or other poisons, they should be on trial for murder instead of bootlegging," the judge asserted.

Troops of the Albanian government are reported to be retreating before the insurgents.

Long skirts and public opinion have banished the shimmy and saxophone. Dancing masters and musical directors of Chicago today agreed the craze is dead.

"Dancing changes with women's styles," said Louis Guyon, dancing master. "When women wore short skirts they had great freedom of movement which is now impossible with the tight long clinging gowns. Music publishers and orchestra leaders have conducted a bitter campaign against jazz bands. Most of the Chicago hotel and dance halls orchestras have banished jazz instruments."

"Politics is a man's game," she said. "Women's minds are fundamentally different from those of men and few women have the necessary qualifications to enter politics."

"There is no doubt that women are in politics to stay, but the threatened formation of a woman's bloc to oppose men will never develop."

"Women, however, have a distinct place in politics, and that is to clean it up."

'RUNNING FOR OFFICE NOT AS HARD AS IT LOOKS,' ANNA OLESEN

COVERED EVERY COUNTY IN THE STATE, 11 SPEECHES A DAY

SELDOM WORKED LESS THAN SIXTEEN HOURS OUT OF 24, SAID SHE

It has been stated that Mrs. Anna Dickie Olesen, in running for office, has not had the benefit of any machine. This is erroneous, for women voters of Minneapolis gave her a little Ford touring car and the mileage run up has been something terrific.

(By United Press.) Minneapolis, Nov. 3.—Running for office isn't so hard as it looks. Anna Dickie Olesen, first woman nominee for United States Senator is convinced there is no such a thing as a "killing campaign."

"I will admit it has been strenuous," she said today, "but it has been invigorating and entirely enjoyable."

In fifteen weeks, Mrs. Olesen, democratic choice, has conducted the most strenuous personal campaign on record she believes. She has covered every county in the state by automobile, speaking as many as eleven times a day, and working seldom less than sixteen hours out of 24.

"It isn't wearing or tiresome," she said. "I am in better trim physically and mentally than I have ever been before. Ever ymuscle in my body is supple and strong. I have been before. Every muscle in my strenuous, but it has built me up. Running for office is the finest kind of exercise."

2 TRAIN ROBBERS KILLED IN HOLDUP

(By United Press.) Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 3.—Two train robbers were killed early today in an attempt to hold up the St. Louis-Memphis special of the Frisco system near Seventy Six, Mo., according to reports received here.

One of the men killed is said to be Jack Kennedy, alias the "quail hunter," an ex-convict who served 20 years in the Missouri penitentiary for another Frisco train robbery near Kansas City, Mo. The other bandit has not been identified.

Wittenberg, Mo., Nov. 3.—A trap set by federal agents three weeks ago was sprung today when train robbers held up the fast Frisco train No. 805, bound from St. Louis to Memphis, resulting in the killing of two of the bandits and the capture of the third.

A tip that the hold up was planned reached federal officials early in October, so that 11 officials including six operatives were prepared for action when the brakes were suddenly applied at 76 Missouri, a flag station 90 miles south of St. Louis.

As the robbers leaped from the flying locomotive with their plunder, the eleven officials opened fire with rifles, shot guns and revolvers. Jack Kennedy and Harvey Logan fell dead. William T. DeBow, a companion, who escaped, was later taken into custody at Memphis.

Since receiving the erroneous tip that the hold up was planned, postal agents have been constantly on guard. However, they were unable to locate the conspiring band. Wednesday night the investigators and robbers slept in the same hotel each unaware of the presence of the other.

Wittenberg, Mo., Nov. 3.—A trap set by federal agents three weeks ago was sprung today when train robbers held up the fast Frisco train No. 805, bound from St. Louis to Memphis, resulting in the killing of two of the bandits and the capture of the third.

A tip that the hold up was planned reached federal officials early in October, so that 11 officials including six operatives were prepared for action when the brakes were suddenly applied at 76 Missouri, a flag station 90 miles south of St. Louis.

As the robbers leaped from the flying locomotive with their plunder, the eleven officials opened fire with rifles, shot guns and revolvers. Jack Kennedy and Harvey Logan fell dead. William T. DeBow, a companion, who escaped, was later taken into custody at Memphis.

Since receiving the erroneous tip that the hold up was planned, postal agents have been constantly on guard. However, they were unable to locate the conspiring band. Wednesday night the investigators and robbers slept in the same hotel each unaware of the presence of the other.

new paving at Little Falls in a body on November 9th. The Little Falls Lions hold their weekly luncheon on Thursdays, and it is planned to join them at dinner on that day.

It is pointed out that a large delegation should be present at this opening of the Little Falls paving. Brainerd is anxious that the work be continued north from Belle Prairie next season. Towns west of Little Falls are just as anxious that the paving be extended in their direction, and will be in attendance on Nov. 9th to show their interest.

Brainerd citizens cannot afford to let this opportunity pass by failing to be present at the big celebration. The program that has been arranged by Little Falls is to be an all day affair. C. M. Babcock, highway commissioner, will be present, and the interest which Brainerd shows in that celebration may impress upon him the fact that this city is wide-awake and anxious that the paving be brought in this direction before it is projected any further west.

The Lions decided to take this matter up with the Rotarians at their next meeting, and also at the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, so that a very large representation of Brainerd citizens will make the trip to Little Falls on Nov. 9th.

The progress on the work for a public market was reported by the special committee for this purpose. It was stated that the Nisswa Farm Bureau Unit, at its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon went on record as a great many other units have done recently, as being strongly in favor of such a market, and addressed a communication to the Brainerd city officials urging that some favorable action be taken in this regard. The farmers are all agreed that this market should be in the form of a long shed, open on one side, and divided into stalls, each large enough for one farmer to drive in with his truck or wagon load of produce. This is on the order of the one in operation at Ironton, which it is said is proving very successful.

The Brainerd Lions Club was asked to appoint one from its number to act on a county committee for the prevention of cancer. It was pointed out that a National Cancer Week will be observed early this month, and this county committee is to perfect plans for its observance in Crow Wing county. Rev. Fred Errington was selected to represent the club on this committee.

Crosby's huskies are invading Brainerd tomorrow to pit their football eleven against the local squad.
The game will be called at 3 p. m. at the new field near the Brainerd Gas Co. plant.

Brainerd was beaten on the Crosby gridiron in the first game of the season. The range crowd, of course, has it doped out that their team will win again in Saturday's game, but Brainerd is out to upset that dope.

The local squad is practicing every night, with Coach Rosel using every means to strengthen the line that failed him in the first tilt. The team wants to redeem their reputation and every man is putting forth his best efforts for this one result.

Enthusiasm is running high in the high school. The student body wants a big victory and are doing everything they can to promote it. Route King Olson, has his crowd bursting with the kind of pep that never fails to encourage a fighting team.

This is Brainerd's last stand. The team is prepared for the most desperate battle of the year. They must win. And they ask the support of the good citizens of this city to turn out en masse and show their support to the home players.

The Brainerd team is very grateful for the Brainerd attendance at the Little Falls game played in that city recently, in which our representation was larger than that of our opponents, on whose field the game was played. If such loyal support is given at the game Saturday the locals are sure to respond in a way that will make the score look much better than the previous game with Crosby.

First Baptists In 50th Anniversary Celebration

all members of the church will begin to plan for this jubilee event.

The committees on public pro-operation is kindly requested of all the members of the church family.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1922

THE OBLIGATION OF THE FRANCHISE

The right to vote, which is a privilege of both male and female citizens of the United States, carries with it an imperious obligation and failure to vote is of the nature of shirking an obligation and failing to value a privilege. Obligations, however, even though they are imperious are not always met. There must be a dominant interest behind the obligation if the sense of duty is to be recognized. Where there is no compelling interest duties are often neglected.

Rights that are common, and for which no price is asked, are not highly valued, except by those who remember the history of the struggle of the common people who have won the franchise only by a costly effort. Women are not likely to forget their obligation to vote, for that privilege has come to them but recently after years of activity looking to that end.

Whatever attitude voters may take to the questions referred to the electorate, and whichever candidates they may think are best qualified for the respective offices, they have the right to express these preferences at the polls, and they are remiss in their duty as citizens if they fail to register this opinion.

If the important decisions that are to be made by the voters on November 7th are correctly appraised, the apathy that has characterized the election campaign this fall will be cast aside on the day of election, and the voters will be out in full force to register their wishes at the polls.

The two state amendments, two amendment to the city charter, the election of sheriff, county attorney and county superintendent of schools, plus the election of state officers and a United States senator, ought to be of sufficient importance to call for an expression of opinion from every voter in Crow Wing county. The issues and candidates are before the people, whose votes will be responsible for determining the issues and choosing the candidates, and citizens who do not vote will prove their lack of appreciation of the long struggle for universal suffrage that has conferred upon them their vote. The issues before the people of Minnesota are important, the county offices to be filled are important offices, and it is important that the citizens of Minnesota express themselves on the matter of whom they wish to serve them as governor of the state and as United States senator.

NATURALIZATION

In the afternoon of Nov. 8th a number of persons who have their residence in Crow Wing county will appear in district court for the purpose of becoming citizens of the United States. This may seem an unimportant matter in the light of the multitudinous citizens who compose this great commonwealth, but to those who face the court and submit themselves to the questioning of the federal examiner the matter is one of momentous importance. Probably only those who have taken this step can appreciate the feelings of candidates for citizenship. Many of them enter a court room for the first time, they are influenced by the fact that they are in a court room, and their appearance in such a building, for a serious purpose, impresses them much more than it does a person who has become familiar with the processes of law.

The old saying: "First impressions go a long way," is true of the impressions made upon these people at the time when they enter into the great family of citizens of the United States. Because this has been recognized by those who wish to favorably impress new citizens, special exercises are frequently held in court rooms when applicants for citizenship appear before the court, and arrangements are made for sympathetic people to meet the new citizens in a cordial manner, to greet them, congratulate them, and, on behalf of the citizens of the United States, receive them into the family of citizens of this country.

The United States, more than other countries, extends an invitation to aliens within its borders to become citizens, and citizens assume a critical attitude to those who do not seek citizenship. Therefore, having extended this invitation, it is becoming that it is accepted, the person accepting it should be warmly welcomed into the family of citizens. A warm patriotic spirit may be born within the new citizens as a result of a cordial welcome by fellow citizens or, in the absence of this welcome, the new citizen may leave the court room with the feeling that the matter is one of rules and regulations in which no spirit of Americanism breathes. A warm hand-shake, a cordial greeting, a word of welcome and congratulation, will go a long way towards impressing the new citizen with the feeling that he is not an intruder but a fellow citizen welcomed by the other members of the large family of citizens of the United States.

MINNESOTA'S STOCK

E. P. LYON, Dean of the Medical school, University of Minnesota, in discussing the theme "A Greater Minnesota" in the Minneapolis Journal, places the emphasis on heredity. He points out that while heredity determines the possibilities of the individual, environment offers the conditions in which these possibilities are worked out. It is therefore obvious at once that both heredity and environment must be improved. H. G. Wells has suggested that many a great musician, artist or thinker has died in poverty with talents that were never developed because of the failure of his environment to afford an opportunity for development. Talent does not always find its way to expression, it is often submerged, and that despite all the flippant talk of the room that is always unoccupied at the top. Many men never climb to the top because they can never get a start from the bottom. Many a man has at some time in his life met the person with undeveloped talents who has never arrived, fortuitous circumstances never made his arrival possible.

In line with this was the experience of the young student who went out to preach in a mining town and after the service met a miner who wished to talk to him about the meaning of the text from which he had spoken. When the miner repeated the text in the Greek the young student at once admitted his inability to continue the conversation along that line. The miner knew Greek better than the college student.

There is not a shadow of doubt that heredity has a great deal to do with the physical and mental qualities of individuals, but it

Brainerd Dispatch, Sir: It seems that this town is getting pretty well worked up over the stand that the business and professional men of Brainerd have taken against the striking shop crafts, can't they have a little patience? Just because the money don't fly from all directions on pay day, any more, they try to make out that the shopmen are much worse than they really are, how did you get your money in the first place?

W. B. L. says in the Dispatch that they will be paid back for this, that's the correct thing to do, but I want to say this, don't make the innocent suffer with the guilty ones for we also have some very white business men in this burg.

George H. Gardner seems very much peeved at Mayor Little because, as I understand it, he lost quite a little money on the dance that he mentioned. And he has the nerve to ask us taxpayers what we think about paying the city's working men fifty cents an hour, of course we think it's alright. What does Mr. Gardner think this town is any way, a sweatshop?

I'm afraid that Mr. Gardner will have to give us an explanation when he says that if we put the mayor out of office we won't have to have so many police men, now I want to know this, who is going to protect the replacement men? I don't believe the shopmen will do it.

If there is no more truth in the balance of the article than exists in the opening chord or introduction, musically speaking, Mr. Gardner will be busy retracting and should be more careful, as to facts, in the future.

Mr. Gardner contends that the local orchestra in the case has been giving or playing dances in the Elks hall "at least once a week." The orchestra referred to in Mr. Gardner's article played its first and only dance in the city of Brainerd, Oct. 31.

In this particular instance, let us say, Mr. Gardner exaggerates somewhat!

THE right to vote, which is a privilege of both male and female citizens of the United States, carries with it an imperious obligation and failure to vote is of the nature of shirking an obligation and failing to value a privilege. Obligations, however, even though they are imperious are not always met. There must be a dominant interest behind the obligation if the sense of duty is to be recognized. Where there is no compelling interest duties are often neglected.

Rights that are common, and for which no price is asked, are not highly valued, except by those who remember the history of the struggle of the common people who have won the franchise only by a costly effort. Women are not likely to forget their obligation to vote, for that privilege has come to them but recently after years of activity looking to that end.

Whatever attitude voters may take to the questions referred to the electorate, and whichever candidates they may think are best qualified for the respective offices, they have the right to express these preferences at the polls, and they are remiss in their duty as citizens if they fail to register this opinion.

If the important decisions that are to be made by the voters on November 7th are correctly appraised, the apathy that has characterized the election campaign this fall will be cast aside on the day of election, and the voters will be out in full force to register their wishes at the polls.

The two state amendments, two amendment to the city charter, the election of sheriff, county attorney and county superintendent of schools, plus the election of state officers and a United States senator, ought to be of sufficient importance to call for an expression of opinion from every voter in Crow Wing county. The issues and candidates are before the people, whose votes will be responsible for determining the issues and choosing the candidates, and citizens who do not vote will prove their lack of appreciation of the long struggle for universal suffrage that has conferred upon them their vote. The issues before the people of Minnesota are important, the county offices to be filled are important offices, and it is important that the citizens of Minnesota express themselves on the matter of whom they wish to serve them as governor of the state and as United States senator.

NATURALIZATION

IN the afternoon of Nov. 8th a number of persons who have their residence in Crow Wing county will appear in district court for the purpose of becoming citizens of the United States. This may seem an unimportant matter in the light of the multitudinous citizens who compose this great commonwealth, but to those who face the court and submit themselves to the questioning of the federal examiner the matter is one of momentous importance. Probably only those who have taken this step can appreciate the feelings of candidates for citizenship. Many of them enter a court room for the first time, they are influenced by the fact that they are in a court room, and their appearance in such a building, for a serious purpose, impresses them much more than it does a person who has become familiar with the processes of law.

The old saying: "First impressions go a long way," is true of the impressions made upon these people at the time when they enter into the great family of citizens of the United States. Because this has been recognized by those who wish to favorably impress new citizens, special exercises are frequently held in court rooms when applicants for citizenship appear before the court, and arrangements are made for sympathetic people to meet the new citizens in a cordial manner, to greet them, congratulate them, and, on behalf of the citizens of the United States, receive them into the family of citizens of this country.

The United States, more than other countries, extends an invitation to aliens within its borders to become citizens, and citizens assume a critical attitude to those who do not seek citizenship. Therefore, having extended this invitation, it is becoming that it is accepted, the person accepting it should be warmly welcomed into the family of citizens. A warm patriotic spirit may be born within the new citizens as a result of a cordial welcome by fellow citizens or, in the absence of this welcome, the new citizen may leave the court room with the feeling that the matter is one of rules and regulations in which no spirit of Americanism breathes. A warm hand-shake, a cordial greeting, a word of welcome and congratulation, will go a long way towards impressing the new citizen with the feeling that he is not an intruder but a fellow citizen welcomed by the other members of the large family of citizens of the United States.

MINNESOTA'S STOCK

E. P. LYON, Dean of the Medical school, University of Minnesota, in discussing the theme "A Greater Minnesota" in the Minneapolis Journal, places the emphasis on heredity. He points out that while heredity determines the possibilities of the individual, environment offers the conditions in which these possibilities are worked out. It is therefore obvious at once that both heredity and environment must be improved. H. G. Wells has suggested that many a great musician, artist or thinker has died in poverty with talents that were never developed because of the failure of his environment to afford an opportunity for development. Talent does not always find its way to expression, it is often submerged, and that despite all the flippant talk of the room that is always unoccupied at the top. Many men never climb to the top because they can never get a start from the bottom. Many a man has at some time in his life met the person with undeveloped talents who has never arrived, fortuitous circumstances never made his arrival possible.

In line with this was the experience of the young student who went out to preach in a mining town and after the service met a miner who wished to talk to him about the meaning of the text from which he had spoken. When the miner repeated the text in the Greek the young student at once admitted his inability to continue the conversation along that line. The miner knew Greek better than the college student.

There is not a shadow of doubt that heredity has a great deal to do with the physical and mental qualities of individuals, but it is equally true that the physical and mental qualities of individuals are largely determined by the conditions of life in which they and their parents have lived.

Just to what degree the conditions in which people live affect the physical and mental qualities of people, that are in turn transmitted to posterity through heredity, is yet to be determined. There is no doubt, however, that better surroundings would in time produce a better stock of citizens. A well bred child will become a savage if he is put into the forest to live.

COMMUNICATION

To the Voters of Crow Wing Co.:
When in Brainerd last I noticed a "Farmer-Labor Party" poster in a store window. The two important items were increased taxes, but of a kind which the average farmer and workman might think did not affect him. The originators of the poster thought the farmer and workman would like to tax the other fellow.

The farmers and shopmen are having some bitter experience this fall, and have time to think—most of us have time to think now. I submit the following questions:

1. Can you think of any tax of any kind except the so-called inheritance tax, which does not tend to reduce wages, depress living conditions and lower prices of farm products at the farm?

2. What do you gain, what did any voter ever gain, by voting for the less competent man, both being honest? You know that some men now running for office are less competent than their opponents. Should you use the same judgment in selecting your servants in office that you do in hiring them yourselves? Do you hire a farm hand or plumber or cook or lawyer, because he or she belongs to the same secret society you do, or because he or she shakes your hand vigorously when you meet?

3. When a shop man or farmer consumes five days in doing one day's work whom does he benefit and whom does he damage? Who pays the freight? Are not living conditions made worse and factory prices raised, and farm products depressed at the farm, when any workman anywhere does not give labor proportioned to his wages? When any candidate for office professes to favor such practices is he right? Morality not in question, but economic facts.

4. Should not the inheritance tax be increased on large estates and decreased on small estates where the widow and children need the money? For instance, J. J. Hill leaves sixty million dollars. The state (his fellow citizens are the state) protected him in acquiring and holding it all his life. He made his children millionaires, also. If each got out of his estate one million dollars, was not that enough? Should not the remainder go back to the state for its expense and save taxes?

You will observe the above is not argument, simply questions for all of us to think about. We may not answer alike.

2 MEN BURIED IN SEWER CAVEIN

Ole Holm Completely Covered and Fellow Workmen Worked Six or Seven Minutes to Extricate Him

JACK HILL BURIED TO WAIST

Men Rushed to St. Joseph Hospital for Treatment, Where They Were Given Every Attention

What might have resulted in a very bad accident was thwarted by quick action Thursday morning when a part of the new sewer, being constructed in Northeast Brainerd on First street between Maple and Prescott streets caved in, burying Ole Holm and partially covering Jack Hill, workmen employed by the Sherlund Co., who has the contract for this city work.

A. W. Osborne, inspector for the city on the sewer construction work, was standing along side of the trench watching the work of Mr. Holm, who was connecting the sewer pipe at the bottom. The side of the trench started to cave in, and Holm stood up placing his hand in an outstretched position above his head in an effort to stop the intruding sand.

It was only a matter of a minute until he was completely covered, the trench being ten or twelve feet deep. But Mr. Osborne kept close watch of the place where Holm was buried, until shovels were secured. It took six or seven minutes to dig away enough of the loose sand to expose the buried man's face and head. Water was used in an effort to revive him while the workmen uncovered the rest of his body, but first aid efforts were of little avail, and he with Jack Hill, was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital, where they are receiving every attention.

It is understood that Hill was only buried to his waist, and his injuries result from bruises received from the intruding sand and gravel. It is said that in cases like that of Holm, it sometimes takes several days before perceptible improvement is noticed, so great is the shock to the system.

Ole Holm resides at 913 S. 11th street, and was formerly a blacksmith in the Northern Pacific shops. He has been employed in construction work for the city since the strike started, and in Northeast Brainerd has been working for the Sherlund Co., on the city's sewer contract. Hill is also a resident of Brainerd and well known here. He resides at 1112 So. 10th street.

The scene of the accident was on First street Northeast between Maple and Prescott streets where the sewer work is almost finished. It was only a small stretch. The cave-in, it is reported, occurred when loose ground around an old gas line, gave way and water, accumulating from the recent rains, helped rush the soil away.

SMITH AND HALL AT LABOR HALL

Personal Representative of Samuel
Gompers and President of State
Federation of Labor

DELIVERED ADDRESSES HERE

Political and Industrial Questions are Taken Up, Mr. Smith Speaking
For Two Hours

A very large audience greeted Paul J. Smith and E. G. Hall, who spoke at the Trades and Labor hall Thursday evening. Mr. Smith is a former coal miner, and is now personal representative of Samuel Gompers, and Mr. Hall is president of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor. He is also a member of the National Council of Cigar Makers.

The speakers were introduced by Mayor F. E. Little. Mr. Hall spoke first in the interests of both political and industrial questions. He was followed by Mr. Smith, the principal speaker of the evening, who held his hearers' attention closely for nearly two hours through a well prepared and well delivered address.

Mr. Smith advocated the election of men in politics who favor working men and the farmer if they expect to have any recognition in their state and national legislative bodies. He claims that these classes have been and now are practically ignored by the politicians now in power.

The speaker alleged that Wall Street is in a conspiracy to get control of politics for the purpose of crushing both labor and the farmer, but especially labor. He claimed the present financial depression was "absolutely premeditated" by capital in an effort to reduce labor to such straits that they would be glad to agree to longer hours and less pay.

Mr. Smith stated that the farmer, alone, lost twelve billion dollars in the past two years, and that labor lost seven billion dollars in that length of time, through what he called the absolute predominance and control of Wall Street and capital over the political and industrial conditions of the country.

Messrs. Hall and Smith speak this evening before the labor bodies of St. Cloud along the same lines. They are strongly supporting Dr. Henrik Shipstead for U. S. Senator.

2 MEN BURIED IN SEWER CAVEIN

Ole Holm Completely Covered and
Fellow Workmen Worked Six or
Seven Minutes to Extricate Him

JACK HILL BURIED TO WAIST

Men Rushed to St. Joseph Hospital
for Treatment, Where They Were
Given Every Attention

What might have resulted in a very bad accident was thwarted by quick action Thursday morning when a part of the new sewer, being constructed in Northeast Brainerd on First street between Maple and Prescott streets caved in, burying Ole Holm and partially covering Jack Hill, workmen employed by the Sherlund Co., who has the contract for this city work.

A. W. Osborne, inspector for the city on the sewer construction work, was standing along side of the trench watching the work of Mr. Holm, who was connecting the sewer pipe at the bottom. The side of the trench started to cave in, and Holm stood up placing his hand in an outstretched position above his head in an effort to stop the intruding sand.

It was only a matter of a minute until he was completely covered, the trench being ten or twelve feet deep. But Mr. Osborne kept close watch of the place where Holm was buried, until shovels were secured. It took six or seven minutes to dig away enough of the loose sand to expose the buried man's face and head. Water was used in an effort to revive him while the workmen uncovered the rest of his body, but first aid efforts were of little avail, and he with Jack Hill, was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital, where they are receiving every attention.

It is understood that Hill was only buried to his waist, and his injuries result from bruises received from the intruding sand and gravel. It is said that in cases like that of Holm, it sometimes takes several days before any perceptible improvement is noticed, so great is the shock to the system.

Ole Holm resides at 913 S. 11th street, and was formerly a blacksmith in the Northern Pacific shops. He has been employed in construction work for the city since the strike started, and in Northeast Brainerd has been working for the Sherlund Co., on the city's sewer contract. Hill is also a resident of Brainerd and well known here. He resides at 1112 So. 10th street.

The scene of the accident was on First street Northeast between Maple and Prescott streets where the sewer work is almost finished. It was only a small stretch. The cave-in, it is reported, occurred where loose ground around an old gas line, gave way and water, accumulating from the recent rains, helped rush the soil away.

SMITH AND HALL AT LABOR HALL

Personal Representative of Samuel
Gompers and President of State
Federation of Labor

DELIVERED ADDRESSES HERE

Political and Industrial Questions are
Taken Up, Mr. Smith Speaking
For Two Hours

A very large audience greeted Paul J. Smith and E. G. Hall, who spoke at the Trades and Labor hall Thursday evening. Mr. Smith is a former coal miner, and is now personal representative of Samuel Gompers, and Mr. Hall is president of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor. He is also a member of the National Council of Cigar Makers.

The speakers were introduced by Mayor F. E. Little. Mr. Hall spoke first in the interests of both political and industrial questions. He was followed by Mr. Smith, the principal speaker of the evening, who held his hearers' attention closely for nearly two hours through a well prepared and well delivered address.

Mr. Smith advocated the election of men in politics who favor working men and the farmer if they expect to have any recognition in their state and national legislative bodies. He claims that these classes have been and now are practically ignored by the politicians now in power.

The speaker alleged that Wall Street is in a conspiracy to get control of politics for the purpose of crushing both labor and the farmer, but especially labor. He claimed the present financial depression was "absolutely premeditated" by capital in an effort to reduce labor to such straits that they would be glad to agree to longer hours and less pay.

Mr. Smith stated that the farmer, alone, lost twelve billion dollars in the past two years, and that labor lost seven billion dollars in that length of time, through what he called the absolute predominance and control of Wall Street and capital over the political and industrial conditions of the country.

Messrs. Hall and Smith speak this evening before the labor bodies of St. Cloud along the same lines. They are strongly supporting Dr. Henrik Shipstead for U. S. Senator.

Special Communion Service (Contributed)

The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the service on Sunday evening in the First Baptist church. A special service is being arranged for and it is urgently requested that all the church membership shall be present to take advantage of this service. It is especially desired that all the young people of the church be in their places and all who have not as yet had the opportunity to receive the right hand of church fellowship. The communion service being held at this time in the evening will afford an opportunity for those to participate who are not always able to be present at the morning services. Let every member of the church and congregation make every effort to be present at this time.

"The Call of the North"

Jack Holt, besides appearing in his first Paramount star picture, had also the honor of breaking virgin soil for location scenes at Mammoth Mountain, California, 50 miles north of Bishop. The picture is "The Call of the North" and a reproduction of a Hudson Bay trading post was constructed in the heart of the mountains, on the shores of one of the many beautiful lakes which abound.

The mountains form a background of eternal snows and are lofty. The country is almost primitive, though a hotel is located where the company made its headquarters. Many Indians were employed as extras, while two specially trained Indian actors, Chief Lighthart and Big Tree, the latter a full blooded Seneca, took part in some of the scenes.

Madge Bellamy has the feminine lead and Noah Beery, former Paramount character favorite, Francis McDonald, Jack Herbert and others are seen in good roles. The picture will be shown at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Saturday.

"Behold My Wife!" Coming

Practically an all-star cast interprets the important roles in George Melford's great picture of the Canadian Northwest, "Behold My Wife!" which is coming to the Lyceum theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Elliott Dexter, for some time a leading man in Cecil B. De Mille's pictures; Mabel Julienne Scott, leading woman in "The Sea Wolf"; Milton Sills, a favorite in such pictures as "The Woman Thou Gavest Me"; and Ann Forrest, of "The Prince Chap" fame are the principal players. This is one of the biggest pictures of the year.

"The Call of the North"

Jack Holt, besides appearing in his first Paramount star picture, had also the honor of breaking virgin soil for location scenes at Mammoth Mountain, California, 50 miles north of Bishop. The picture is "The Call of the North" and a reproduction of a Hudson Bay trading post was constructed in the heart of the mountains, on the shores of one of the many beautiful lakes which abound.

The mountains form a background of eternal snows and are lofty. The country is almost primitive, though a hotel is located where the company made its headquarters. Many Indians were employed as extras, while two specially trained Indian actors, Chief Lighthart and Big Tree, the latter a full blooded Seneca, took part in some of the scenes.

Madge Bellamy has the feminine lead and Noah Beery, former Paramount character favorite, Francis McDonald, Jack Herbert and others are seen in good roles. The picture will be shown at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Saturday.

"Behold My Wife" Coming

Practically an all-star cast interprets the important roles in George Melford's great picture of the Canadian Northwest, "Behold My Wife!" which is coming to the Lyceum theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Elliott Dexter, for some time a leading man in Cecil B. De Mille's pictures; Mabel Julienne Scott, leading woman in "The Sea Wolf"; Milton Sills, a favorite in such pictures as "The Woman Thou Gavest Me"; and Ann Forrest, of "The Prince Chap" fame are the principal players. This is one of the biggest pictures of the year.

On Road To Boneyard

"I have just finished a treatment of your wonderful remedy and can say it has done wonders for me already. For the past five years I have been unable to eat any but the lightest food and that but sparingly, as any food caused me to bloat with gas. I was reduced to a skeleton of ninety pounds, and was on the road to the boneyard. A friend in Birmingham sent me a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I took, and I am sure it will entirely cure me of my trouble, judging from what it brought from me and the way I feel." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson's Pharmacy and leading druggists. Adv.
